NEW BEDFORD — The Massachusetts Cultural Council has announced that Jill Horton-Simms of the New Bedford Local Cultural Council is one of two recipients of a Leadership Circle Award for excellence in individual contributions to community arts and culture.

The Leadership Circle Awards annually recognize outstanding volunteers of the 329 Local Cultural Councils across the state. These local arts leaders play a crucial role in supporting projects that celebrate diversity, foster collaboration, showcase artistic excellence and provide learning experiences for people of all ages and backgrounds. The award will be presented at the State House on Wednesday, Feb. 10.

Horton-Simms has been a lifelong supporter for youth education and the arts. Soon after moving to New Bedford in 2008, she became president of the Friends of the New Bedford Free Public Library, helping to raise more than $25,000 for library programs. In 2012 she created and received funding for a unique program for middle school youth in New Bedford called Art in Words. In 2014, she was appointed as a trustee of the New Bedford Free Public Library.

Involved with several non-profits in the city, Horton-Simms has been a member of the New Bedford Council since 2012. As chair, she spearheaded community initiatives such as the Deck the Windows public art contest.

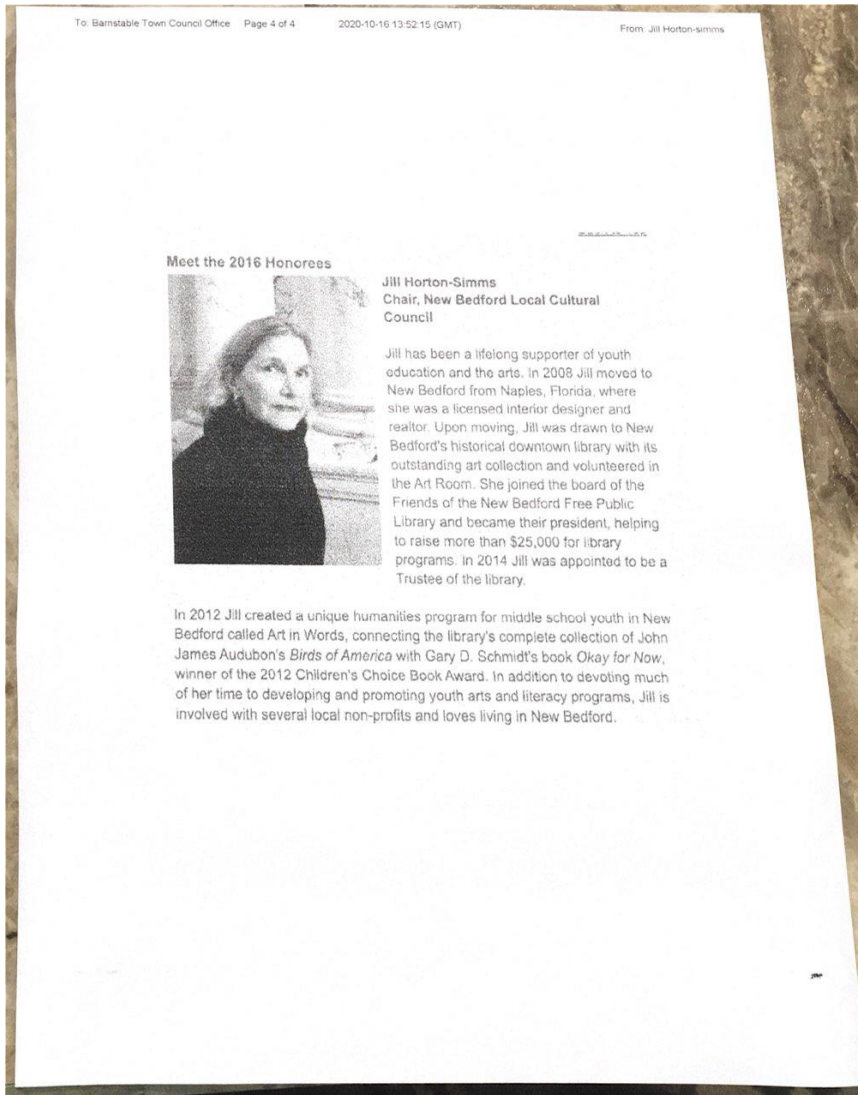

"Ms. Horton-Simms is a great asset to New Bedford for her work helping young people discover the arts," State Rep. Antonio Cabral said in a press release. "This Leadership Circle Award is well deserved."
