PUBLIC COMMENT:

Whitney McNamara was opposed to the residential task force but was in support of the items regarding Accessory Dwelling Unit (ADU).

Meaghan Mort explained she was looking forward to action on ADU and would reserve her thoughts on the task force.

Rich Wrightson supported the task force as it was very important for residents to give Council some advice.

Tina Carey felt the planned summer lane closure on Main Street Hyannis was horrendous. She questioned who was leading the charge with this type of planning as it resulted in grid lock on Main Street. She questioned who was representing the Businesses in Downtown (BID) Hyannis in these decisions.

Bill Liimatainen supported the ADU zoning but was opposed the task force. He said the task force was another micromanagement tool.

Patricia Farinha, member of the Shellfish Committee discussed the notice of intent to construct a timber boardwalk, pier, ramp and float at 209 Bay Street Osterville. On March 10th 2021 the Shellfish Committee did not approve this request. On March 30th the Town's Conservation Committee approved the work. She felt the proposed property additions which are located adjacent to a ways to water and next to a recreation shellfish habitat could potentially destroy the shellfish environment.

Alan Feltham supported the task force which would permit early citizen participation in zoning cases.

Susan Rohrbach opposed the task force; felt incumbent Planning Board and Council would engage more people in general and added was in support of the ADU.

Joe Lima and John Picard opposed the task force but supportive of the ADU and affordable housing.

Tara Vargas Wallace opposed the task force but supported the ADU and affordable housing.

Cindy Martin opposed the task force as an additional layer.

Elizabeth Wurfain felt the downtown intersection needed housing for all ages and socioeconomic people. She added the Village Center needed to promote a Comprehensive Economic Plan. She noted housing, clear water and jobs were very important for Barnstable.

Michelle Lombard supported the task force. She felt there needed to collaboration between citizens and Town Council.

Maryanne Barboza was opposed to the task force. She felt the Town Councilors were there to represent the people's wishes and if Council did not, they would be voted out of office. She urged more community communication which should include all people.

Christopher Flanagan a member of the Home Builders Remodeling Group supported the ADU and added ADU is a must.

Jessica O'Brien supported the ADU.

Christian Teague supported the ADU was opposed to the task force.

Councilor Response to Public Comment:

(Clark) Thank you Patricia Farinha for discussing the important shellfish habitat issue in Osterville. The shellfish habitat is decreasing and the quality and quantity is at stake. Please elevate the significance of this issue.

(Hebert) Need to clarify understanding of the Citizen Petition. We will not debate format only voting on merit of participation, then if accepted will have a workshop.

(Bogan) Echoed Councilor Hebert's understanding of the petition, there was no opposition to ADU, rather the task force was purposed in order to have a voice in the decisions being made to ensure citizen's voices would be heard. Concerned with Tina Carey's comments regarding the representation of BID members during the decision making process and possible conflict of interest.

(Ells) Unaware we directly represent the BID. Town created BID and BID functions separately but the BID does work with the Town in a regulatory manner.

(Jenkins) I spoke with Tina Carey, and met with a number of businesses before continuing the Hyannis downtown lane closure planned for this 2021 season.

(Dagwan) Please give suggestions on trying to find better ways to communicate.

(Schnepp) Thanked the public for tuning in to the zoom meeting and if there are better ways to engage, please let us know. We work collaboratively with the BID.

Elizabeth Jenkins gave an update on Main Street Hyannis Summer 2021 plan. The consensus from the downtown businesses is to do it again. Since this is a transitional moment there will be some restrictions lifted but some restrictions/regulations have remained. We did receive positive comments regarding Main Street. A merchant meeting was held with 50 business owners and/or business managers to discuss the plans for Summer Season. Discussion included streetscape changes: accommodate parking on both side of street, adding as much parking as possible; additional lighting, planting and upgrade to barriers with barrier wraps. Placement of barriers will begin next week.

(Hebert) Everyone enjoyed Main Street thank you for the improvements with on-street parking and the beautiful wraps.

Elizabeth Jenkins gave an update on the Local Comprehensive Plan. She explained it was the long-term vision of our community, a guide for rate of new development and coordinating with the capital improvement plan. She noted the areas to address and plan for: the review of existing conditions, data and background for mapping and creating platform; performance measures; scope and service of the consultant; inclusive community engagement; agreed upon standards for engagement; and a process to build public trust. She added Part I would be gathering data and existing conditions with community vision. Part II would be goals, targeted action plan and performance measures.

(Levesque) We have sunset the Town's Ad Hoc committees and Presidential groups; the tasks have been completed. Local Comprehensive Plan that is now the plan.

2021-171 VOTE ON THE MERITS OF A CITIZENS' REQUEST TO ESTABLISH A RESIDENT ZONING TASK FORCE INTRO: 05/06/2021

Karen Nober, Town Attorney gave background on the item. She explained Ann and Bob Schulte's request was to establish a zoning task force. The document was a group petition but it did not contain actual signatures of 150 resident voters. She said the petition cannot be considered. Council she added would review the request and with tonight's vote would do the merit of the request. If it has merit then Council will decide at a future Council meeting.

Open Public Hearing

Amanda Converse supported the ADU but was opposed to the task force. She felt there would be delayed implementation and referenced a Town of Dennis 2 year delayed similar example

Margaret and Niles Sutphin supported the resident task force. They volunteered to be members for the task force.

Meaghan Mort felt this task force was not the way to achieve critical engagement. Please focus on how to get everyone informed. Those that need the housing cannot attend the zoning task force.

(Steinhilber) Point of Order What is the issue here? Are we accepting?

(Levesque) Said the signatures were already accepted.

Natalie Pettinger supported the task force. She felt this gave residents a say.

Sheila Mulcahy supported what Meaghan Mort said – not supportive of task force. Task force was exclusive not inclusive.

Ann Schulte explained this was a response for all citizens to have an input, balance the scale.

Ken Nosal supported agenda item 2021-171; the Town has asked for public comment. This would give voice for transparency – vote yes.

Erin Andrews opposed the task force as it was not necessary. Working people deserve to live here this would be more difficult for marginalized people.

Katri Mullaly felt there was a lack of merit with the residential task force. She added this task force will slow everything down.

John Crow supported the task force as it encouraged citizen engagement. He felt the task force fostered a diverse collaboration of all residents.

Ted Lowrie supported the task force.

Robert Brennan was opposed to the task force but in favor of citizen engagement.

Shawna Moss was opposed to the task force but was supportive of citizen engagement.

Lisa Guyon was opposed to the task force.

Ellen Nosal supported the residential zoning task force.

David Houghton was opposed to the task force as it does not have merit.

Alisa Magnotta, Chief Executive Officer Housing Assistant spoke about the housing crisis and how the citizen request was looking for stronger citizen engagement. It seems that the task force is another committee which is redundant.

Kate Sheehan asked to make it easier for the ADU in Barnstable and to vote no on the task force.

Carlos Barbosa explained the ADU was very important for the community.

Martin MacNeely was opposed to the task force as it had no merit.

Megan Newman felt housing was needed but has a lack of faith in the Town Councilors. She said another layer was not needed.

Close Public Hearing

Councilor questions and comments:

(Atsalis) Will the formation of the task force slow down the ADU?

(Bogan) Residents are not given an opportunity for their input; they need to be able to participate.

(Schnepp) ADU will not move forward due to the residential task force question. Due to our sunset action with the Ad Hoc committees we understand the frustration and concern due to the narrow field but another committee does not have staff support. I will vote against the task force.

(Hebert) There is uncomfortableness with Short-Term Rentals (STR) within the Town Council; all of the Councilors want the ADU. The public feeling is the residents are not being heard with the Regulatory Committee.

(Levesque) Town Council has accepted the request for a task force even though there were no signatures. We will be deciding the merit of moving forward with the task force.

(Nober) Does the proposed request have merit? If yes then subsequently Council will take action. Tonight voting on just if the request has merit.

A motion was made and duly seconded to go beyond 11 PM

VOTE: PASSES 12 YES Atsalis, Bogan, Clark, Dagwan, Rapp Grasseti, Hebert, Levesque, Neary, Schnepp, Shaughnessy, Starr, Steinhilber

(Hebert) Supported the task force see the merit.

(Steinhilber) There are numerous steps for attempting a response and collecting data. Will we come back to the STR? As for the proposed request/petition it is redundant voting no.
(Bogan) End of the day the request/petition has merit. The objective has been served – they felt they would not be heard. Voting yes but task force is not necessary.
(Dagwan) Vote no for merit but it was a well-meaning task force in favor of community engagement not race based.
(Rapp Grasseti) Encourage more diverse representative group the request/petition has merit but opposed to separate task force.
(Neary) We are voting on merit tonight?
(Nober) Yes the vote is on the whether the request has merit. A Yes vote - it has merit or a No vote - it does not have merit. Council does not have to take any other measures.
(Neary) It does not make sense to create another committee. Will be voting no on merit question.
(Levesque) Council will be voting on merit of the request/petition but does not have to act on it. What does it mean?
(Steinhilber) Yes vote you want it – no vote you do not want it.
